Charm and Dignity Mark First Celebration of Landing Day.

Knights of Columbus Keep Open House and Banquet Members.

Rev. Henry S. Spalding, S. J., Delivers a Powerful Address.

STATES THE CATHOLIC POSITION

The Knights of Columbus of this city celebrated Columbus day in a most interesting and memorable manner. This was the first anniversary of the event in Kentucky since it was declared a legal holiday. One of the objects of the order is to spread the name and fame of the great discoverer, all the councils throughout the country seek to invest the celebration of Landing day with peculiar charm and dignity. During the afternoon the local council kept an "open house" from 2 to 5 o'clock, and the members and their ladies were welcomed in large numbers. A constant stream of visitors poured in and out of the home of the council at 816 Fourth avenue, where refreshments were served to all who came. The parlors and hall were handsomely decorated, and the beautiful American flag purchased by the council was flapping in the breeze from the front windows of the home.

At night an elegant banquet was spread, and several hundred Knights sat down to the tables at 8 o'clock. Grand Knight Edward J. McDermott presided, and when the time for speech-making arrived delivered a glowing address full of patriotism and zeal for the cause of Columbianism. Thomas B. Hart, editor of the Catholic Telegraph of Cincinnati, responded to a toast on "The Press," and Camden R. McAttee also delivered an address that was loudly applauded and much appreciated.

The guest of the evening was Rev. Henry S. Spalding, S. J., of Chicago, Ill. Father Spalding comes from a distinguished Kentucky family who have given many sons and daughters to religious orders in the Catholic church, and many of them have achieved distinction as authors and in high ecclesiastical places. He devoted his remarks to the necessity of religious education being taught in connection with an education of the mind, and said in part:

I hold that the State should continue to support and regulate those schools where no religion is taught, and to provide such schools for those children whose parents object to religious education; that the State should support those schools where religion is taught, and provide such schools for those children whose parents desire a religious education; that the State should exercise the same jurisdiction over both kinds of schools in regard to the qualification of teachers and the standard of studies.

I am told that many organizations which have philanthropy as their watchword restrict this exercise of charity to their own members. I would not have you imitate such a model. I would have you be as unbounded as the love of Christ, as the solicitude of the church. While in your membership you must have certain rules and requirements, I would not have you glory in the honor of exclusiveness. I would not have your charity confined to your limited circle; it should be as broad and universal as that of Christ, who pitied the poor and neglected, who ministered to the suffering, who in humility washed the feet of his disciples. I would call upon you as individuals and as members of your council to take an active part in every religious and civic movement for the benefit of the church and country.

I am told there are societies which protect their members, even when guilty of atrocious crimes; that it is a principle with them to shelter members in our civil courts. I would have you drive the unworthy member from your midst and never permit him to use your organization for his selfish schemes or to safeguard him against justice.

Knights of Columbus, you have as a model the discoverer whose work was crowned with success on this October 12. The motives of Columbus were entirely unselfish, his ambition looked not to self-aggrandizement; he sought for a new world, not to enrich himself or his kind, but to bring to the inhabitants the blessing of Christianity. Let that be your ambition—that the Kingdom of God may reign in this land. Let it be your highest inspiration to touch the moral life of the people. The greatest problem before the nation is the problem that should enlist the interest of the Knights of Columbus. Without the slightest hesitation I affirm that the greatest problem of the nation today is irreligious.

Two generations ago we were a religious people; today the child is growing up without the knowledge of God, without a knowledge of the Bible. The child's religious education is being neglected and the child of today is the man or woman of tomorrow. A system of education has been elaborated on the wrong principle that the educated person would be a moral person. This system is all but perfect in the training of the intellect; but it fails in the education of the moral life of the child. And failing in this vital part it sends the child into the world unprepared to cope with temptation; unversed in the principles of morality; as the result of our system of education we have in half a century become indifferent in religious matters. We must give religious training to the child. Now in solving this problem there is only one method and that is for the State to pay for all schools. As Catholics we are not asking the State to do what we do not ask it for money for religious purposes. We have had too much of State and Church or of State churches where priests are paid servants of the State; but it is only fair for us to ask for our own money for our own child. Provided we come up to the standard of other schools in the various branches of study, there can be no objection to our teaching the children some religion. It will make them better citizens and the State will gain rather than lose. The time has come for you to go before the voters of this land and ask for your own money for your own children; it is absolutely unjust for you to pay a double tax. Let others build their schools as you have done and let the State pay them their pro rata. You ask no one for his money, you ask for your own; and if you put this before the American people their sense of justice will prompt them to give you what is rightfully yours.

You can do nothing unless you live as individuals are in conformity with the teachings of the church; unless you keep the commandments, unless you pray, unless you sanctify yourselves by frequently approaching the sacraments, those channels of the grace of God. If your heart is the abode of sin, if your lips are soiled by profane or indecent language, if in your private or public life you are a scandal to your Protestant neighbors, vain will be your hope of being an auxiliary in the church of God for good. You will frustrate the noble ends of the association.

"ELECTRIFIED."

Rev. Father Brady Presented Handsome Auto.

The Rev. A. J. Brady, the widely known and beloved pastor of St. Cecilia's church, received an "electric" shock on Wednesday, but of a nature that will be the source of more than ordinary pleasure to him.

self and his Louisville admirers. The first of the week Father Brady received a bill of lading, and when the delivery was made it was found to be for a $2,600 electric automobile having the gift of friends of the good Louisville priest had made in Michigan. The machine is one of the finest in the city, and words would hardly express the feelings of Father Brady when the auto arrived and the full purport of the "bill" was made known to him. He has made several trips with his brother priests and runs the machine with the ease of one who has had years of experience.

PRIEST'S SUDDEN SUMMONS.

There was widespread grief in Southern Indiana when it became known Saturday morning that the Rev. John Doyle, for thirty years the beloved rector of St. Simon's church at Washington, Ind., had died suddenly of apoplexy at his rectory on Friday night. Father Doyle was held in high esteem by Catholics and non-Catholics and his parishioners feel that they have suffered the loss of a wise and most kind shepherd. The deceased was well known in New Albany and Jeffersonville, and the clergy of those cities were among the many who attended his funeral.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Genial Dan Haager was given the surprise of his life at his home, 1225 West Jefferson street, on Sunday evening, in honor of his forty-fifth birthday, by members of the Night Euchre Club, who presented him with a costly bathrobe and slippers and numerous other gifts. Mrs. Haager was "next" and had ready a feast that would delight a king. In leaving all expressed hope that Mr. Haager would live to enjoy many returns of his anniversary. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames James Reid, W. Bartman, John Heeb, W. Patterson, J. Doer, Fred Struck, L. Weissgerber, E. Burton Cannon, of New Albany; Miss E. Haager and Master L. W. Weissgerber.

IRISH ENVOY

Coming to Louisville in Behalf of the Parliamentary Party.

Friends of Ireland Arrange For a Great Welcome Friday Night.

Arrangements Will Be Completed at Meeting Tomorrow Evening.

ENTHUSIASM AGAIN AWAKENED

The announcement that Hon. Joseph Devlin, one of the leaders in the Irish Parliamentary party, was coming to Louisville and would be tendered a public reception by the friends of Ireland next Friday night at Masonic Temple, was hailed with rejoicing by all classes of our citizens, and a gathering is predicted such as will surpass any witnessed here since the Land League days.

Four of the duly elected members of the English Parliament, Hon. John E. Redmond, Joseph Devlin, Daniel Boyle and T. P. O'Connor, are in this country. Three of these (O'Connor is the representative of an English constituency) are the direct representatives of the Irish people who have been sent by their fellow-countrymen to give an account of their stewardship to the Irish people of America and solicit aid to enable them to bring to a successful issue their valiant and promising struggle for home rule. These men are Ireland's representatives to America in the strictest sense of the word. They are not only the Parliamentary representatives of the Irish people, but they belong to a party to which constitute nine-tenths of the Irish representation in Parliament. They are therefore both empowered and qualified to speak on the Irish situation as few other men are.

During the time that the envoys have been in America they have been accorded the highest esteem by their fellow-countrymen. At the convention of the United Irish League in Buffalo they were received with an enthusiastic welcome that came straight from the heart of the great throng of representative Irish-Americans assembled there. In a similar manner they were tendered a warm reception in New York City. And wherever they go to tell the people first hand the story of Ireland's recent struggle for the mastery of her own rights their hosts have been at one accord in offering them both outward and substantial evidence of their good will. This is the laudable spirit of the Irish of America who are in sympathy with their struggling brothers in the old land. This is the spirit that tells in the end, and if the vane of the future be not acted upon by other than known forces, the joyous day is soon to dawn when an Irish Parliament will again assemble on College Green.

The Irish envoys are in America not for personal pleasure or advancement. They are here to acquaint their countrymen with conditions as they actually exist in Ireland today. They come with the seal of approval of their countrymen, and that alone should be a sufficient passport to the confidence of their countrymen in America. They are men whose loyalty has been tested well, in the crucible of political strife. They are still in the crucible and still intact. They are deserving of a hearing in America, and the support of all Irish Americans as well.

In a little more than a month Parliament will open, and the men who are with us now will have to get back again to the grim grind of duty. It is to be hoped that their efforts here will result so favorably as to stimulate them in their struggle for Ireland's rights, and that when they return to America again it may be their privilege to relate the story of their triumph.

As soon as it became known that this Irish Envoy could visit Louisville a number of conferences of prominent citizens were held and preparations begun for his reception, which will be completed at a general meeting to be held tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at the Knights of Columbus club house, to which all interested are invited. Bishop O'Donoghue and all the local clergy will be invited, the Bishop to introduce Mr. Devlin, and there will be at least a hundred Vice Presidents. The organization is being directed by Judge Matt O'Donohy as Chairman, Hon. Edward J. O'Brien as Secretary. Rev. Father White will head the reception committee, and Hon. E. J. McDermott will issue the invitations. Camden McAttee will be Chairman of the Press Committee, Robert J. Hagan the Attendance Committee, and Thomas Bohan the Printing Committee. The committees will be completed tomorrow night and will represent every society and section of the city. The programme when completed will be made known through the daily press.

DEDICATED.

Columbus day will ever remain a pleasant memory to the Catholics of Waverly and vicinity, as the anniversary will recall the solemn and impressive dedication of the handsome new church there by the Rev. James P. Cronin, Vicar General of this diocese. The beautiful ceremony attracted an immense gathering of people from the surrounding country, many non-Catholics taking advantage of the occasion to join their Catholic brethren in this most fitting observance of the day. Father Cronin was assisted by many priests and the sermon was preached by the eloquent Father Edward Fitzgerald, of Owensboro, whose words made a deep impression on his hearers.

MEMPHIS.

Catholic Ladies Organize an Auxiliary For the Y. M. I.

For the purpose of organizing an auxiliary to the Young Men's Institute at Memphis, Tenn., a meeting was held at the quarters of Chickasaw Council, at which the most prominent Catholic families of the city were represented by one or more members. President George W. Canlin delivered the address of welcome to the ladies, and was followed by Grand President George Lawo, J. J. Barry, Edward Jones, John Colbert, Jr., and E. Longinotti, all of whom expressed appreciation of the assistance of Miss Marie Zimmerman, who was largely responsible for the launching of the auxiliary. The organization was completed by the election of the following officers: Miss Marie Zimmerman, President; Miss Margaret Walsh, First Vice President; Mrs. Dave Zanone, Second Vice President; Miss Lucille O'Donnell, Corresponding Secretary; Miss Agnes Gallagher, Recording Secretary; Miss Margaret Walsh, Financial Secretary and Treasurer; Miss Prudence Walsh, Corresponding Secretary. After the election plans were discussed for the bazaar to be held in November. The committee for this affair is composed of Misses Louise Dush, Ethel Johnson, Clara Herbers and Mrs. Dave Zanone.

ST. XAVIER'S.

Students' Exercises Commemorate Landing Day.

Commemoration exercises of the landing of Columbus were held by the students of St. Xavier's College in the college hall on Broadway, near Second street, Tuesday afternoon. Brother James, the Director of the college, addressed the students, and after reviewing the life of Columbus called their attention to the two qualities which stand out most conspicuously in the life of the American discoverer—his extraordinary faith in God and his stability of purpose—and showed them the need of their developing the same qualities if they would attain the success to which they looked forward. In closing he proclaimed the morrow a college holiday, and stated that it would be observed as such coming year. The following literary and musical programme was rendered by the students:

Piano solo, "National Airs," Arthur C. Becker.
Essay, "Columbus and His Aim," Jerome Ohlischlager.
Piano solo, "Selections from Faust," Oliver Jennings.
Discussions, "Columbus and His Return," Leonard Goss and George Hoffmann.
Piano solo, "Midnight Flyer," Vincent Klapheke.
Essay, "Columbus and His Achievement," Clay King.
Piano solo, "Second Mazurka," Jerome Ohlischlager.
Oration, "Columbus and His Motto," Jesse Shea.
Finale, piano solo, "Valse Lente," composed and played by Arthur Becker.

CALL ON TAFT.

Irish Envoys Received by the President at Beverly.

Last Sunday a party of distinguished Irishmen, including Hon. John Redmond, Joseph Devlin and John Boyle, all members of Parliament, were received as British subjects by President Taft at Beverly, Mass. Chairman Redmond, leader of the Irish party in Parliament, was accompanied by Mrs. Redmond, T. P. O'Connor was to have been a member of the delegation, but could not be present. The plans and progress of the home rule movement were told to the President, but the call was almost wholly of a social character. Mrs. Taft and Miss Taft assisted in entertaining the guests. Before calling on the President, the Irish party were guests of A. Shuman, a neighbor of the President. The envoys have addressed many large gatherings this week, with splendid results for the Irish cause.

AWAY FROM HOME.

One of the saddest of the recent deaths in this city was that of Mrs. Joseph Baker, wife of Joseph Baker, a prominent business man of Memphis, which occurred Sunday evening at the Norton Infirmary. Mrs. Baker was here visiting her sister, Mrs. Richard Whitty, 3812 West Broadway, when she suddenly became ill of typhoid fever. The body was removed to the Whitty home and the bereaved husband and sons, John and William, arrived here Monday morning. The funeral took place Tuesday with burial in Cave Hill. Louis Baker, John Baker and Charles Baker, all connected with the Mangel Box company, are brothers of Mr. Baker.

Every Catholic, and for that matter every charitably inclined person in Louisville, New Albany and Jeffersonville, should turn out and attend on at least one night the grand bazaar for the benefit of the Sisters of Mercy that will open Tuesday in Liederkrantz Hall and continue for three days and nights. MACKIN COUNCIL

Will End Its Membership Contest With a Banquet.

Though many members were at the horse show Monday night there was a good attendance at the meeting of Mackin Council, when two were elected and six applications were filed. President Kenney announced the recovery of Lawrence Kinella and John Nash, but the condition of Dave Hummel and Peter Heid remains unchanged. President Kenney appointed Joseph Hancock, Joseph Steltenpohl and Dick Andriotti as an investigating committee for the last quarter of this year.

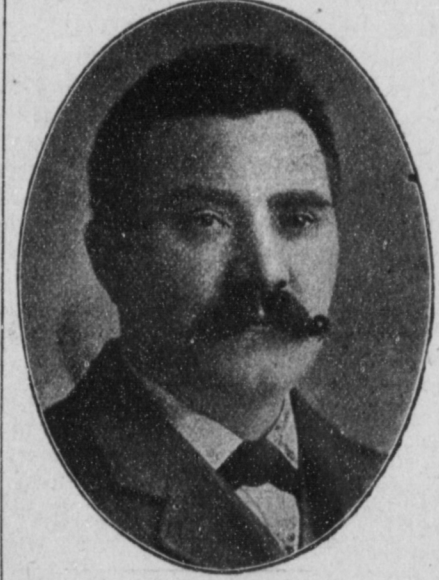

The membership contest, which will end with a banquet, was formally started with Aloysius Link and George Lautz as the respective captains. This promises to be a spirited affair, and as the prizes are the best ever offered there will be much rivalry between the two teams of fifteen members each. The initiation is set for the afternoon of November 20, and the banquet will follow the same night.

Mackin Council decided by unanimous vote to co-operate in the reception to be tendered Hon. Joseph Devlin, the Irish member of Parliament, and will be represented at the meeting to be held Sunday night at the Knights of Columbus club house.

FINE HOME

Now Occupied by Henry Hunold On Walnut Street.

Henry Hunold, for many years in business at Sixth and Walnut streets, is now occupying the bazaar and handsome building erected by him two doors east of his former location. The building is one of the finest on Walnut street and is divided into two commodious store rooms, in one of which is located the grocery and in the other an elegant cafe. Mr. Hunold's friends have been calling upon him by hundreds and congratulating him upon his success. Engaging in business where he was a stranger, by energy, thrift and honorable dealing he has built up a trade and reputation that stands second to none. His grocery is stocked with everything in that line, and the cafe is one of the best equipped in the city. Henry Hunold is one of the class of men who make a city prosper, being public spirited and progressive, men who are deserving of every success. For his friends there is always a cordial welcome.

IRISH MUSIC CLUB.

The Irish Music Club of Chicago celebrated its ninth annual festival last Saturday at the Coliseum with an Irish vaudeville programme followed by a ball. John J. Ryan, James Coleman and Denis O'Leary with fifty children of the Gaelic Dancing Club gave a group of four and eight hand reels, including "The Blackbird," "Humors of Bandon," fligs and hornpipes, accompanied by Thomas F. Ennis, the Irish piper. Philip Scully, George Walsh, John R. O'Donovan, Eileen and Alice Veale gave patriotic songs.

ANNIVERSARY.

The Rev. Father John Adelapger, pastor of St. John's church at Carlisle, will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood on Tuesday. Invitations have been sent to all the priests in the Covington diocese and many in this. The celebration will begin with a high mass of thanksgiving and will conclude the following day.

CARDINAL VANNUTELLI.

Cardinal Vannutelli, accompanied by his suite, left for Boston Saturday morning, where he remained until Tuesday as the guest of Archbishop O'Connell. He then expected to be in this country about a week longer, most of which time he will stay with Archbishop Farley.

SOFT SPOT

To Fall Is Badly Wanted by the Herald and Post.

Fail to Prove Their Charges of Police Intimidation.

Messrs. Sherley and Miller Will Receive Old Time Majority.

NEGROES TIRED OF REPUBLICANS

One amusing feature of the local political situation is the efforts of the Herald and Post to excuse the poor showing of the Republican party in the recent registration. In other words they are picking out a soft spot to fall this day after election, "police intimidation" being their main stock in trade. The Republican organization had two or more negroes stationed in every precinct in the city where there were many negroes on registration days, their only work consisting of trying to persuade their fellow negroes to register. These negro captains were at the polls all day, and if the Post and Herald stories were true these men would have been the first to feel the effects of police intimidation. Homer Batson, Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, also made the same plea, but when cornered by Chief of Police Lindsey was unable to prove it. Another case in point was that of R. W. Bingham's charge that a certain police officer had interfered in the registration, but when he tried to prove his charges before the Election Commission the case fell flat. Duff Reed, the Republican member, becoming so disgusted that he stated that he would congratulate the policeman on his good conduct, which was proven before the board. The Republicans will not only poll a light vote, but will hardly be able to obtain any of the Independent vote, many of whom are outspoken in saying that Sherley for Congress and Miller for Appellate Judge are the best selections that this district could make, and that it would be folly to replace a man like Sherley in Congress with Judge McGee, who was even a failure in the Police Court, or to choose a man of many parties like Bingham in place of our sterling Judge Miller. Not only the Independent voters, but the voters in general, have learned to take the statements of the Post and Herald with a grain of salt. One of their favorite slogans is that the police were out of politics under Grinstead, while the sworn affidavits of police-storing Judge Miller, who are the best selections that this district could make, and that it would be folly to replace a man like Sherley in Congress with Judge McGee, who was even a failure in the Police Court, or to choose a man of many parties like Bingham in place of our sterling Judge Miller. HELP OLD ERIN.

The Kentucky Irish American calls upon every reader to be present at Masonic Theater next Friday night to welcome Hon. Joseph Devlin, M. P., and if not able to attend to contribute their mite to the most laudable cause by representing—home rule for Ireland. It has been about a quarter of a century since Louisville has been called upon to assist the men who are doing so much for Erin, and it is reasonable to expect that now, when she is on the eve of freedom and self-government, the Irish Envoy will be greeted by a house packed from pit to dome. Never was the future for Ireland as bright as at present, but funds are needed for a successful ending of the struggle that has been waged for over a hundred years. Ireland has helped every city and State in the Union, and it is therefore but just that they should now assist her in the final struggle. With home rule and self government the Irish people will prosper and will never again have to appeal to her exiled children and friends throughout the world. Let all unite and give Mr. Devlin that Kentucky welcome he so richly deserves.

WHAT IS WANTED.

The recent "break" of Signor Nathan in Rome furnishes most startling evidence of the utterly false position in which the Holy See is placed in Rome, and lends additional point to the arguments now being urged to induce Catholics to "get together" all over the world, to counteract the vicious efforts being put forth to hamper and nullify the influence of the Holy See. We have already mentioned the various independent sources from which is heard the urgent call for international action amongst Catholics. Another voice raised to the same end has come from the recent Catholic Congress in Austria, held at Trent. Among the resolutions adopted by the Congress we note the following:

"The congress would consider it a great advance for the Catholic press of the whole world if an independent telegraphic agency were established to liberate the press from the prejudiced news of the great agencies, and to actuate this plan it recommends that efforts be made to secure an understanding with the Catholics of other States."

It is a painful fact that all the great news agencies are, almost without intermission, united in favor of anti-clericalism and against the Holy See when politico-religious questions arise. What is wanted is a thoroughly independent agency which will tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

ARE AT SEA.

The General Episcopal convention at Cincinnati has been marked by insurgency and division. There was a revolt of the West against the East, the former demanding larger committee representation, and this matter and the question of the adoption of a preamble to the constitution were both subjects of lively debate. In the course of which some startling declarations were made which caused a buzzing of surprise and left the deputies much food for reflection. Rev. A. A. Morrison, of Oregon, made an address which was startling to the House of Deputies, for he objected to the statement in the preamble to the Holy Scriptures to be the Word of God. He said: "This is an unfortunate objection to bring into a discussion here. But the Scriptures are so full of inaccuracies that the adoption of the proposed preamble would place us in such a position before the scholastic world that it would interfere with men of education entering the ministry and subscribing to our doctrines. Such an assertion in the preamble would be out of accord with this age of scholarship."

The preamble and recognition of the Scriptures were defeated by a decisive vote, thus leaving the body at sea upon the Bible question. Another ludicrous incident of the convention was the absence of a Bible in the House of Deputies, which led to the adoption of a resolution that a copy of the Holy Scriptures be always kept in prominent view hereafter in the house.

The census figures for Louisville are—well the least said is best. That they were not much higher is sorely disappointing. But what can be expected while the bigots are tolerated and a partisan press is always traducing the good name of the city? If taxation were properly regulated, organized labor recognized and religious proscription cease, Louisville would soon occupy the position that the foregoing evils have kept her from. The curse of this city has been those intolerant who would not grant others the liberty they demand for themselves. They may have kept Louisville back, little to their credit, but there is a new era coming, when they will be lost and the city making splendid progress thereby.

The type has been set for another issue of Bigotry's Banner and it may again appear this week. If this issue is of the same caliber as its predecessor it is more than probable that its end will come. All fair-minded people, regardless of religion and politics, have expressed their condemnation of the vile and disreputable sheet, which stands without any credited sponsor. What it will say about the Kentucky Irish American does not concern us even a little bit. The day for Freedom's Banner and its few bigoted promoters is at an end in Louisville and Kentucky. It's adieu to Givan, adieu to Hackett, adieu to their ilk.

Mrs. Florence Beauchamp, who made herself the Prohibition candidate, will not run for Congress this fall. Through ignorance or neglect she failed to file her petition, and therefore her name will not appear on the official ballot. Many think that what this good woman wanted most was the free advertising her position brought her. Mrs. B. needs no press agent.

By the death of James S. Barret, former President of the German Security Bank, and Major R. C. Davis, the well known lawyer, Louisville loses two of its most worthy citizens. Both had lived clean, pure lives, were kind and charitable, standing high in the community and leaving names that their posterity may always point to with pride.

So far in this campaign we have not heard the slightest suggestion from either the would-be legislators of either party that any of them intend to introduce an amendment to the ridiculous law divorce laws of Indiana. Our law divorce laws have brought disgrace on all the people of this State. This from the Indiana Catholic applies with equal force to Kentucky.

Democrats and Republicans alike ought to support any measure to do away with the modern slavery of child labor. The Catholic charities, in convention in Washington, have taken a unanimous stand on this question. The power of the "interests" in Congress must be broken if this reform is to be accomplished.

The Christian Observer of this city attacks the law which made Columbus day a State holiday, pleading that Columbus didn't discover Kentucky. This is a sample of the brilliant argument you could expect from this bitter non-union Presbyterian sheet. It might have added he didn't discover Beargrass creek either.

In reporting the horse show the daily papers devoted one paragraph to the horses and six or eight columns to the description of what the society women wore. Better call it a dressmakers' exhibition next year.

One consolation in regard to Louisville's poor showing in the census reports is that the Evening Post can not blame Col. Whallen and the Democrats for inefficient canvassing.

Our A. P. A. patriots must have been tickled to death to hear that Teddy Roosevelt and Vice President Sherman made addresses at Knights of Columbus banquets on Columbus day.

OCTOBER.

Month Devoted to Rosary of the Blessed Virgin.

October is dedicated in a special manner to the angels, but is best known in the church as the month of the Rosary. The Rosary is at once the most appealing and most misrepresented of all Catholic devotions among those who do not understand its meaning. Few practices of the church are more widespread than the Rosary of the Blessed Virgin Mary. It consists of the best of all prayers—the Apostles' Creed, the Our Father, three Hail Marys and the Glory Be to the Father; then the Our Father and ten Hail Marys repeated five times. This constitutes the beads, or one-third part of the Rosary. During the recitation of these prayers the mind should be occupied meditating on the principal mysteries of the life of our Lord. The mysteries are divided into the five joyful mysteries—the birth of the Virgin Mary, the visitation to St. Elizabeth, the birth of our Lord, the presentation, and the finding in the temple; the five sorrowful mysteries—the agony in the garden, the scourging, the crowning with thorns, the carrying of the cross, and the crucifixion; and the five glorious mysteries—the resurrection, the ascension, the descent of the Holy Ghost, the assumption of the Blessed Virgin, and the crowning of the Blessed Virgin in heaven. These mysteries contain the whole history of the redemption. The prayers and meditations of the Rosary satisfy the minds of the humblest, while they are sufficient to occupy the attention of the most exalted and most cultivated.

ENCOURAGED.

Irish Delegates Who Met Postmaster General Hitchcock.

Four members of the Irish delegation of nine that came to Washington to file a protest against the abandonment of Queenstown as a port of call by express steamships of the Cunard line on eastbound trips departed Saturday on board the Celtic, of the White Star line. "We feel encouraged as a result of our call," said James H. Campbell, Secretary. "We were informed by Mr. Hitchcock, Postmaster General, that the matter would be taken up with the steamship company."

FORTY HOURS.

Father Denis Murphy will be the celebrant of the mass, and will be assisted by a number of clergy. During the exposition of the Host each evening there will be a sermon and benediction. The devotion will come to a solemn close Tuesday. At the same hours as above similar devotions will take place at St. Boniface church.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

Indianapolis Council promises an extremely unique Halloween card party and dance for October 31.

At the close of an enjoyable smoker by Pueblo Council a very exciting boxing match proved an interesting exhibition.

The institution of a council at Dickinson, N. D., which will take place tomorrow, will be one of the greatest events that city has ever known.

Milwaukee Knights will take possession of their new property today. Twenty-two men teams are soliciting stock subscriptions with most encouraging results.

Indianapolis Knights observed Columbus day with a monster banquet, at which Bishop Chartrand and Hon. John P. Leahy were the principal speakers. All the councils in the district were represented.

Great success attended the series of lectures given under the auspices of the Knights of Terre Haute by the eloquent Paulist, Rev. Bernard Conway. Each night there was a large attendance of non-Catholics.

The great interest and large attendance that marked the mission to non-Catholics by Rev. Bernard Conway, the Paulist, at Terre Haute, Ind., speaks well for the Knights of Columbus of that city, who inaugurated the instructive mission.

In the Sun Worshipers parade at Pueblo, Col., the Knights had two floats, the first portraying the scene of the landing of Columbus. It was drawn by three teams of white horses, each led by a knight in white, which added much to the appearance.

At the reception tendered Rev. William O'Ryan under the auspices of the Knights of Denver, in celebration of his silver jubilee as a priest, the good father was presented with a certified check for $2,500. Leading clergymen of the Protestant denominations and Rabbi Friedman were among the number who were present and testified to the respect in which Father O'Ryan is held by non-Catholics.

HOLY NAME

Society Has History Dating Back Through Centuries.

The Holy Name Society, which has been holding monster processions and religious demonstrations throughout the country during the past few weeks, has history that dates back through the centuries. In the year 1274 Pope Gregory X, in addressing John Vercelli, Master General of the Dominicans, admonished him to join the faithful to serve in a particular manner that name which is above all names—that of Jesus Christ. During the reigns of Charles V. and Philip II, irreligion and blasphemy had spread so that this means was taken to check it. From that period until the present the Dominican Fathers have been the organizers of the Holy Name societies part of their missionary labor throughout the world, and decrees commending their work have been issued by several Popes.

One of the first Holy Name societies of this side of the Alleghenies was that organized many years ago and still flourishing in St. Louis Bertrand's parish in this city. The members, several hundred strong, received holy communion in a body Sunday morning, and the spectacle presented was most edifying.

St. John Gaffney, the American Consul General at Dresden, Saxony, has received the unusual honor of an invitation to become a Director in a Dresden civil society formed to protect visitors and promote the city's interests. In extending the invitation Director General von Schimpff stated that the honor was intended as a recognition of Mr. Gaffney's popularity among the citizens of Dresden, as well as his skill in making the Saxon capital popular among Americans.

FRANCHISE TALKS—

The Rate-Regulating Commission.

The initial rates named in the new franchises, the assertions of the opponents of the merger notwithstanding, will effect an IMMEDIATE saving to the gas and electric consumers of Louisville.

And these rates are LOWER than those that prevail in almost any other city.

Not only that but so far as we know, THEY ARE THE LOWEST RATES FIXED BY ANY FRANCHISE IN THE UNITED STATES.

Put if the pending franchises safeguard the public's interest as thoroughly as we contend that they do, then they must provide that these INITIAL rates, based upon PRESENT conditions, shall be lowered if, under FUTURE conditions, the cost of gas or electricity is reduced.

And that is exactly what the pending franchises DO provide.

They provide for the appointment of a commission of experts, to regulate FUTURE rates.

Six months before the INITIAL rates expire the commission shall commence an investigation, upon the result of which the rates for the next four years shall be based. Every four years thereafter a similar rate-fixing investigation shall be made.

THE COMMISSION CANNOT RAISE RATES — except in the case of fuel gas should the supply of natural gas become exhausted.

IT MUST LOWER RATES WHENEVER IN ITS JUDGMENT SUCH RATES HAVE BECOME UNREASONABLY HIGH by the reduction of cost of gas or electricity due to NEW INVENTIONS, or the supply of CHEAPER LABOR or MATERIAL.

LABOR, MATERIAL, and the ADVANCE of the INDUSTRY — the three factors which are to govern rate reductions — are the same factors that REGULATE COSTS.

There is but ONE other factor and that is BRAINS — the ability to effect economies, not through cheaper labor, cheaper materials, or costs-reducing inventions, but through efficient management.

The company is, we believe, entitled to any saving that may be effected by the brain-factor.

The Gas and Electric Companies of Louisville.

Good Record Being Made by Division 3, A. O. H.

The meeting of Division 3, A. O. H., last Friday night was such as would make a record for any society. President Con Ford occupied the chair with all the officers present. Secretary Will Meehan announced the death of John Burke, and after his memory had been eulogized by Vice President James Welsh all benefits were ordered paid. Messrs. John Keaney, Joseph Lynch and William Meehan were named to prepare a memorial to be presented the family of the deceased member, John F. Heilon, well known in Hibernian circles for many years past, forwarded his transfer card, which was gladly accepted. Communications received included one from County President Welsh, calling the division to the county convention to be held October 23 at Red Men's Hall, Nineteenth and Portland avenue.

Delegate Joe Lynch submitted a most satisfactory report of the proceedings of the State convention, in which the work of each day was given in full. President Ford called upon John Keaney, Edward Keiran, William Greaney, Charles Obst and William Meehan, who related their Ashland experiences, their visits to fronton, Huntingburg and Catlettsburg, and also the lasting impression made by the Hibernian display, parade and religious services preceding the opening of the convention.

BARDSTOWN.

There was a happy and general observance of Columbus day at Bardstown. Nearly all business was suspended and all classes did honor to the discoverer of America. The principal celebration was conducted by the Knights of Columbus and concluded with a banquet, at which Attorney Thomas Walsh, of this city, was the principal speaker. His address was eloquent, patriotic and witty, and was given the closest attention throughout. Many declared it the best heard in Nelson county for many years.

MOURN HIS DEATH.

Many relatives and friends mourn the death of Edward Winn, which occurred Monday morning at his home, 724 Zane street. He was forty years old and a son of the late James and Margaret Winn, and was well known and popular among a wide circle of acquaintances. Surviving him are one sister, Mrs. James Duane, and three brothers, John, James and Thomas Winn. The funeral took place Wednesday morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church and was very largely attended.

This is a strong combination and has met with favor everywhere.

The reports of Financial Secretary Langan and Treasurer Brady were read, showing Division 4 improving financially and numerically. Rev. Father Doyle, the newly elected division Chaplain, was present and promised to give the members a series of short talks on religious subjects in the near future.

The following were elected as alternates to the county convention, which will be held at Red Men's Hall on Sunday afternoon, October 23: William Callaghan, James Reilly, Lawrence Meaney, Fred Mooney and M. J. McDermott. President Hennessy appointed Thomas J. Langan, John J. Barry and David J. Reilly as a committee to draw up resolutions on the death of Recording Secretary Winn's brother.
